

Accounting Fraud Investigation

The 2018 amendment to the Act on External Audit of Stock Companies obligates companies, upon notification by external auditors regarding accounting standard violations, to retain external experts and conduct thorough investigations. The findings from these accounting fraud investigations serve as material audit evidence regarding factual matters and accounting treatment, and the appropriateness of subsequent corrective actions significantly impacts the formulation of the auditor's opinion.

The Accounting Fraud Investigation Team at Shin & Kim is equipped with cutting-edge digital forensic analysis tools (Falcon, EnCase, Axion, x-Way) and leading review platforms (Nuix, Relativity) for both external and in-house investigations, complemented by proprietary analysis and search systems. By leveraging comprehensive expertise across all relevant legal domains—including corporate accounting, audit procedures, and responses to agencies – such as the Korea Exchange and the Financial Supervisory Service – arising from audit opinions and extensive practical experience, our team conducts accounting fraud and internal misconduct investigations tailored to diverse client demands. In addition, we are dedicated to promoting accounting transparency through these external reviews, thereby facilitating the resumption of trading and ongoing listing compliance.

Shin & Kim's Accounting Fraud Investigation Team conducts robust, evidence-based investigations with external specialists, employing state-of-the-art digital forensics and methodical review methodologies, and deliver comprehensive legal services assisting companies and auditors in achieving appropriate accounting practices and responding to regulatory oversight.

Key Services

Shin & Kim has further enhanced its expertise by recruiting former Prosecutor General Moon Moo-il, a foremost authority in digital forensic investigations, and a certified public accountant with substantial auditing experience at the Financial Supervisory Service. The team now includes an expanded cadre of review analysts to ensure rigorous external investigations.
