Mr. Hakwoo Kim is a foreign attorney at Shin & Kim's Indonesia office. He handles a wide range of corporate matters, including overseas investment, incorporation, general corporate affairs, construction and engineering projects, and local enterprise acquisition.

Leveraging his experience as a project manager and contract manager for plant and power projects at an EPC company, he has a strong background in construction legal works, including negotiations with overseas clients. He has more than three years of experience working on-site at construction projects in countries such as Indonesia and Algeria. He also managed the legal support office for the Korindo Group, a Indonesian company known for Korean origin, where he gained extensive experience handling various local legal issues. Having a multicultural family in Indonesia, Mr. Kim is a regional expert with a deep understanding of the local culture and provides professional services tailored to the specific needs of his clients.
