Daniel Woojin Chang is a senior foreign attorney focusing principally on white collar investigations, corporate compliance, e-discovery, military procurement, and general corporate matters.

His cases include representation of major companies in investigations conducted by the U.S. Department of Justice or the Korean Prosecutors' Office, representation of conglomerates in sanctions proceedings before the World Bank, and advisory services to multinational aerospace and defense companies in the military procurement process.

Prior to joining Shin & Kim, Mr. Chang served as a New York State and New York City prosecutor for about five years. While at the New York State Attorney General's Office, he was part of the Criminal Enforcement and Financial Crimes Bureau where he handled intensive investigation for major bank frauds involving international money laundering of nearly USD 1 billion. Mr. Chang also worked at the Trial Bureau of the Brooklyn District Attorney's Office prosecuting hundreds of violent and non-violent felony cases in all stages from intake and grand jury to disposition.
